For the first time in 25 years, the Royal Shakespeare Company returns to Chicago Shakespeare Theater at Navy Pier.

After thrilling audiences in Stratford-upon-Avon, the RSC's reimagined production of The Taming of the Shrew (a comedy) is a must-see event!

A fresh perspective is offered with the portrayal of hierarchy and power, in which usually female roles are now played by men, while the usually male roles have become female characters, portrayed by women. This shift in power dynamics sets off an explosive battle of the sexes in an electrically charged love story. It's exuberantly entertaining!

A pre-show lunch at Navy Pier is also included.
